

Pure Being

Everything is the One Mind, beside which nothing else exists, and all multitudinous perception is illusion. Everything that can become the contents of our perception is merely a phenomenon in our consciousness, without real being.

Yet pure being in itself is being without condition, without dependency on anything that has gone before since it is not derived from any being.

As the reality of the One Mind, it is the Absolute, it is the suchness of all things. It is formless and uncreated since its being derives itself of itself. This inexpressible reality of being, lying beyond all human conception, is that unborn, eternal, unchanging self which is the basis of all our experiences.

All-Embracing Wholeness

Mind is not the opposite of matter, but rather it forms matter. It is its substance and thus the sole basis of all that is material, that is, of all forms.

All multiplicity is illusion. There is just a single being, the One Mind, beside which nothing else exists. It is the sole reality at the deepest ground of all living beings and all things. In truth, there exist neither living beings nor objects separate from one another. When, in effortless awareness of mind, you transcend your discriminating, dualistic perception, you are then in natural clarity and achieve all-embracing consciousness.

Then you will unequivocally experience that the own mind and the One Mind are a sole reality. You experience that your true being in its origin is pure, boundless and completely free.

The Clear Light of Reality

The eternally radiating light of the One Mind is your original true being. It is your intrinsic, immortal self. It is completely detached from the diverse phenomena of a being, bound in space and time, and its multitudinous forms of existence.

In contrast, the ignorant, vagrant ego is nothing more than a shadow which disappears at the moment of Enlightenment when the splendour of the divine Self radiates forth.

By breaking through to your true being, you are raised above all limitations of an earth-bound human existence and you experience your ascent above the dark haze of phenomena into the clear light of reality.

All-Embracing Love

The prerequisite for inner readiness to open our hearts to all beings is selfless concern and compassionate love for all living beings, effectuated on the spiritual path.

However, this can only take place by overcoming our own conditionings so that we surpass the world of opposites and experience consubstantiality with all beings. This is the only way for us to find true peace within ourselves, and thus plant love, tolerance, and peace in the world.
